Let the Westland Festival Committee continue as is

The best thing that happens in Westland for the people is the summer festival, but the evil touch of the politicians has to spoil it.

Westland Festival Committee is the bomb, not mayor

The Westland Festival is the bomb. Please don't allow the mayor wruin the parade, the pageant, or the carnival with his notions about family activities.

While the mayor is an expert on traveling, he is not generally considered an expert on family values or a paragon of family

His recommendation to take the Festival out of competent hands appears motivated by jealousy of the Festival's success and disregard for the residents of Westland who enjoy the Festival. I hope that the city council puts the residents' wishes over the mayor's scheming and allows the Festival committee to continue a great event.

Business owner wins Mustang

Dennis Hermatz, owner of Wayne Lawn & Garden, won a 2000 Mustang Convertible in Michigan Community Newspapers' Great Mustang Giveaway contest.

The contest was open to MCN's advertisers, and 83 hopeful business owners and managers entered the drawing for the new car. "It was just a way of thanking our advertisers," said MCN publisher Mike Wilcox. "It was also the most successful promotion we've ever had."

The drawing for the new car coincided with MCN's five-year anniversary, and took place Thursday night at a gala party at the Hellenic Cultural Center in Westland. Longtime MCN columnist Ben E. Jet emceed the evening, which included fun, food and drinks.

"I was just extremely shocked," Hermatz said. And he could really use a new car, too. Hermatz explains, "Both of our cars each have 140,000 miles on them."

Airport travelers raise real stink

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

For once airport noise was not an issue at Detroit Metro Airport on Monday.

Instead travelers were holding their noses instead of their ears, as scores of bathrooms at Smith Terminal were forced closed because of a broken 10= inch water main.

Metro Airport has been the scene of many complaints this year -- beginning with that post-New Year's disaster caused by a massive snowTravelers were holding their noses instead of their ears.

Anxious travelers were found walking, walking and walking trying to find open terminal bathrooms...only to find a few finally open, but had lines of 20 persons or more before them.

The water line rupture occurred at 2:30 a.m. - long before most of the airport visitors began arriving on Monday. But water didn't begin to flow apparently until about 3:30 p.m.

Michael Conway told the press "people had to go to Concourse B or a connecting corridor to find a working restroom.

Fatal driver charged

Kameelah Patterson, 21, of Inkster, was arraigned last Friday on charges of leaving the scene of a fatal Romulus accident and driving while her license was suspended.

Patterson had been booked in connection with the death of a three- year-old Wayne girl.

Young Janisa was visiting Romulus with her family at the time of the accident.

The victim, Janisa Mc-Clellan, was struck on Beverly Road in Romulus, while running with a puppy into the street near Henry Ruff, police said.

Young Janisa reportedly was visiting Romulus with her family at the time of the accident on Sept. 5. She died from her injuries the next day in University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Patterson stood mute beside her attorney during her arraignement before Chief 34th District Court Judge Tina Brooks Green. She was released on a $10,000 personal bond, pending a preliminary exam at the 34th District Court on Oct. 13.

Patterson faces up to five years in prison on the leaving the scene charge and 90 days for the suspended license rap, Officer Cliff West reported.

$2 million coming for old dump cleanup

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

A contaminated site on 118acres of land near Wick Elementary School is slated for cleanup and the state's Department of Environmental Quality reportedly is forwarding $2 million to Romulus for that purpose.

State Sen. Loren Bennett (R-Canton) said the site formerly housed a landfill on Ecorse Road and went out of business in 1975.

But, Bennett said, much solid waste remained buried below the water table and leached into county drains and wetlands.

Underground fires occurred at the site in 1980 and We will have confirmation when we receive a check...rather than a press release.

Since Romulus officials are considering redeveloping the property to build a municipal golf course, Bennett said, the funds will help pay for treating the potential water contamination and covering the landfill to eliminate potential health hazards.

Mayor William Oakley expressed surprise at Bennett's press release Monday night, saying DEQ has been promising the city $1.5 million and he assumes that the outlined funds are probably the same.

Councilwoman Debbie Romak asked "what confirmation do we have of this money?"

Oakley quipped "we will have confirmation when we receive a check...rather than a press release.'

Later in the meeting, Oakley urged the council to approve a $2,000 check for the DEQ so that a wetland study can be conducted as a prelude to building the planned municipal golf course.

Trains irk

Petitions are now being signed in Romulus to urge lawmakers to halt the long vehicle traffic delays by CSX trains.

Councilman William Wadsworth told the City Council Monday night that hundreds of signatures signed at the Super J Foods II store on Ecorse were turned over to him by the store owner, Jesse Masada.

Wadsworth said the up to 45minute delays are forcing some local employees to get to work late.

Among Mr. Ryznar's survivors is former Councilman Noah (Pete) Bergeron -- husband of Marsha Bergeron.

Council chat is offered to city residents

MCN Staff Writer

Would you care to have an informal conversation with a local elected or appointed official?

Well Councilman LeRoy Burcroff has urged his peers to arrive a half hour early next Monday evening in the Council Chambers to talk with local residents.

Burcroff said he was spurred on by the results of the recent city recreation building referendum issue to improve communication between the council members and the public.

Thus elected officials - and potentially appointed city department heads - will gather prior to the City Council meetings the second Monday of each month.

The first term councilman said he was deeply frustrated by the defeat of the city rec center issue and the claims that the public was not well enough informed on the issue.

LeRoy Burcroff

Thus Burcroff said he feels council members and possibly other city officials will want to join in the informal chats each

The growth of such communication styles will possibly be led by whatever public turnout there is in coming months at City Hall.

Parking bottles Florence traffic

By IVAN HELFMAN MCN Staff Writer

After narrow Florence St. was paved, traffic bottled up. So 62-year Florence resident Evelyn Prokop asked the city council to ban street-side

"I came here tonight because I'm pushing for 'no parking' signs," she said, blaming the paving job for the problem. "Before you paved Florence, we had two-way traffic. Now cars park on both sides of the road so it's one-way. There's room for one car, so you can either get through or back up your car and wait. In the winter when it snows it's especially bad they only plow one lane, though Florence is supposed to be a through road."

She said that one neighbor even parks a boat on a trailer with extra large wheels on the

"Now you can't park on the dirt and you can only get one car through," she said. "Is this progress or is stupid? It doesn't sound like progress."

Prokop complained about the city's response to her request. She said, "They tell me I have to get a petition, but I didn't pave the road, so I don't think I should have to get one.

She also criticized the police for botching her call. Instead of discussing "no parking" signs, the police only wanted to know if she had a police emergency, asking her: 'Did you call 911? Do you want a car? Are you all right?"

Mayor Bob Thomas asked Police Chief Emery Price to look into her request.

However, when Price learned that she lived on the gravel section of Florence where there was room to park, he said, "I'm concerned that she doesn't live in the area where she wants signs. I'm not hearing from people who live

Native Americans on full regalia share traditions at Harvest Festival

ROMULUS PUBLIC LIBRAH 11121 WAYNE ROAD ROMULUS, MICH. 48174

By IVAN HELFMAN MCN Staff Writer

Pulsating Native American drum beats and ceremonial dancers in full regalia will draw 15,000 guests to the 7th Annual Autumn Harvest Indian Festival (formerly known as the Native American Festival and Mini Pow Wow) Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. indoors and outdoors, rain or shine, at the Southfield Civic

This seasonal celebration of culture, crafts and cuisine, provides families, scout troops and social studies classes with the opportunity to experience our nation's Native American heritage, as well as the customs of pioneers.

According to Bill Memberto, member of the Little River Band of Ottawa Indians, "This is a chance for non-native folks to relate to and understand the ways of the Native folks. It's an educational effort meant to celebrate cultural diversity." For example, inside the 'Inner Circle,' people of the Three Fires indigenous to Michigan -- Ojibway, Potawatomi and Ottawa - will perform exhibition dances like the grass dance, fancy dance and jingle dance in full regalia. Traditional drumming bow-making and flint marking. and singing will also provide festival-goers with spinetingling entertainment.

Other highlights include: an ongoing sound/slide show by Native American photographer/artist S. Kay Young of Detroit, an Eastern Band Cherokee whose work celebrates the great Circle of Life; storytelling; exhibits featuring an authentic, life-size teepee; a genuine, working birch bark canoe artifacts and clothing from the private collection of Jerry "Laughing Bear" Kuykendall, the Cranbrook Institute of Science and the Nokomis American Indian Cultural Learning Center; preparation of fry bread, corn soup, Indian tacos and other delicacies; craft tables for children, demonstrations of historical tasks like basket- weaving, bead-working, wood-carving,

More than 65 traders will sell blankets, leather goods, jewelry, art and clothing.

Along the festival route guests will also enjoy traditional harvest presentations by blacksmiths, candledippers and pumpkin carvers.

Children will delight in greeting farm animals at a petting zoo and as a special gift of the season, the first 2,000 kids through the gates each day, receive a free, small pumpkin!

Scouts can earn their Native American Badges by partici pating in the festival. Specially-designed commemorative patches will be available for purchase by collectors.

Westland library suspends homebound deliveries; need volunteers to resume

By IVAN HELFMAN MCN Staff Writer

The Public Library of Westland announced today that the homebound Program will be suspended at this time.

The program, initially suggested in 1996 by the Westland Senior Resource Center (also known as the Friendship Center), provided delivery of library materials to seniors who were homebound.

"The Senior Resource Center informed us that they are unable do homebound deliveries at this time," said Joe Burchill, assistant to the director. "We are very disappointed that delivery of our library materials cannot continue but without the Senior Center, we do not have the ability to get -the books to patrons.'

Library staff handled patron registration, telephone requests, checked the items out and prepared them for delivery to the homebound patron. The Friendship Center handled the delivery.

When asked about future plans for homebound delivery, Burchill said, "We lead a number of patrons who relied on this service. We are seeking volunteer drivers with vehicles so that we can continue to offer this service.

Planes, people and pancakes at Yankee Air Museum

By CAROL MARSHALL MCN Staff Writer

The late-September Founder's Day weekend at the Yankee Air Force and Museum featured perfect weather and piping hot pancakes.

Some 1,500 people came out to Belleville's Willow Run Airport to enjoy a chance to get "up close and personal" with the vintage airplanes, many of which were open for public viewing and touring.

The YAF also hosted a pancake breakfast, all of which was served up by volunteer members, in one of their largest and most popular (behind the annual Memorial Day activities) fund raisers of the

"We just had a really nice amount of people come out," said YAF member Beverly Dallape. "It turned out to be a great day."

Jari-Chas is located at 4437 Inkster Road. The school offers many activities, and Leatherwood serves as the Day Care director.

In addition to required subjects taught, children enjoy songs, field trips, games in the park, pizza parties, popcorn days, finger painting, stuffed animals and other activities, including a day with Officer Dawn Hall who stressed safety.

Leatherwood regularly sends newsletters to parents to make sure they get6 information about their children and their children's activities while they participate in the programs at the day care.

Thanks to business community MCN can celebrate success

It's easy to forget about the businesses that help make this newspaper a success. The readers can vent frustrations by dialing sound off or writing letters to the editor. Local governments sets and organizations often have direct access to our reporting staff. And our employees, well they know where to find me every minute of every day.

On the other band, the business community pumps advertising into the newspaper every week without fanfare or recognition. As a token of appreciation, on the eve of Michigan Community Newspaper's fifth anniversary, we held a contest and party for those advertisers. The grand prize was a new Mustang convertible.

Eighty-three businesses chose to participate in the drawing. Then of those businesses had their names drawn from a hat as finalists. Each was handed a key, knowing that only one key would start the Mustang. As the evening wore on and the finalists were drawn, a great deal of anticipation filled the air.

The owner of Wayne Lawn and Garden was offering up to a $1000 to buy a second key from another finalist. No one would part.

Finally, it came time to try the keys in the ignition. Carol from Walt Michal's RV was first to try. Then came Accurate Floor, and Sandy's Marina, and Captain Nemo's, and Norrel Employment Services, etc. etc., until only Beehive was left. The Beehive representative tried her key, and it did not work.

As the owner of newspaper, and the party planner I was aghast. None of the keys worked. Then someone spoke up-it's a stick shift and you have to push the clutch in!

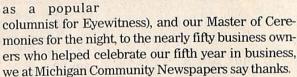

Again, the finalists attempted their keys, and this time Hermatz, the same guy who was willing to buy all the other keys actually had the winning key all along. His started the car and he and his wife, Pat, were jumping with joy.

This will make the third convertible in the Hermatz garage. A collector of 1960 vintage cars, Dennis has a keen interest in older ragtops. The older convertibles are a fixture in Wayne and Westland pa-

However, his everyday vehicles have extended miles and many well worn years, and according to him, the new Mustang will replace a new van he had on order.

Although at times we have struggled mightily, we have always managed to hang around, and if our readers and business leaders will allow, we plan to provide a quality group of newspapers for another twenty-five years.

A real Cinderella story is brewing in Inkster, where the high school football team is undefeated and posting numbers we haven't seen in this school district since the 1950's. In a school district that has faced so much negativity the last few years, coach Mark Townsend has quietly put together a team of youngsters that will make the Michigan High School Athletic Association playoffs for the first time ever.

Townsend has done this amidst horrible odds. Many of the better athletes have left Inkster for neighboring school districts. A lack of money and equipment, however, have failed to dampen the kids' spirits, and support from fellow students and adults is growing each and every week We wish Inkster High all the luck as they continue their quest for an undefeated season,

Another football squad that continues to gain notoriety is Romulus. Coach Mark Woodson coached Romulus into the playoffs last year. This year the team is 6-0, and are rated one of the top, if not the best teams in Wayne County. The squad is on the verge of becoming the first team ever to win a title in two Mega League divisions. Last year they played Gold, and this year they were moved up to Blue. Without all-state back Freddie Russell, Romulus continues to roll and make their fans, including us, modery sugal one of

Modern politicians are actors

While raising funds in Hollywood, President Bill Clinton said that he'd like to become a motion picture actor.

He probably was only half kidding. He's already an actor. Part of being a modern politician.

Surrounded by TV cameras and microphones, politicians naturally ham it up.

I liked it better in the old days before image became all. Back then, politicians sometimes took stands. I remember when John F. Kennedy asked the steel companies to roll back their prices for the good of the country and the corporations complied. Whether you agreed with Kennedy or not, you knew where he stood because he acted on his words.

Nowadays, politicians too often follow polls or, as Canton is just starting to do, follow focus groups.

When an issue becomes too controversial, like abortion, most politicians dodge them. Appointed courts and administrators end up deciding too many major issues.

Even Rep. Lynn Rivers, Southeastern Michigan's most courageous and honorable politician, hedged her bets on the recent invasion of Kosovo. While she correctly opposed the unilateral Presidential action on procedural grounds because troops landed without congressional approval, she never said whether or not she supported the war.

Politicians resort to acting to avoid revealing their positions and to posture. While "I never had sex with that woman" Clinton is the best political actor on the national level, the best on the local level is Westland Mayor Bob

Like Clinton, Thomas holds Town Hall meetings where his many of his answers sound scripted to please and entertain his questioners without lifting a finger to solve their prob-

I bring this up because I want to nominate Mayor Thomas for an Academy Award for best male actor for his role in recommending that the city take over the popular Westland Festival.

In that drama, Thomas shined, the best scene stealer since Jack Nicholson in Five Easy Pieces.

"I would recommend disbanding the festival committee and having the city take the festival back," said Thomas in his loftiest tones.

This was melodrama at its Aaron Spelling best: Mayor Thomas confronting his former opponent Ken Mehl and threatening to take away the festival from Mehl because, among other things, the mayor had to give up his parking space during the festival.

What a tale of revenge. The mayor would extract revenge on every citizen in Westland who enjoys the festival for Mehl's affront to the mayor's parking place sensibilities.

But of course this was all acting, a chance for the mayor to lord it over Mehl.

The mayor obviously knew that the city council would not risk taking the city's most successful event out of competent hands. Sure that the city council would disregard his recommendation, the mayor milked its melodramatic potential for all it was worth, playing an inyour-face tough guy, Westland's Jesse Ventura.

I can't knock what Mayor Thomas did. The shrinking voting public generally rewards imageconsumed politicians.

I just wish that Thomas would find another role. Instead of playing a Tammany Hall mayor, he ought to join the Westland Festival Committee and play a volunteer. That way he might learn how to serve the community well.

Dear Readers: When I started this column I made a solemn vow to continue helping people until I had given away all my money. In my wildest dreams I never expected to have survived nearly 17 years in print. Soon to be 83, I fully expected that my health would go long before my wealth.

As of today, I've achieved my goal. I've given it all away. It has been the most fantastic experience of my life and I've enjoyed every minute of it. I'm going to miss this column, but I'll especially miss the relationship I've cultivated with you, my readers. You've given me so much over the years. In many respects, I'm far richer today than when I started. I've received more thank you's, blessings and praises than anyone I've ever known.

With you, my readers, we've shared tragedies and misfortunes. We've shared people's lives who have been touched in a positive way. We've shared the needy and the greedy-some met with laughter, others met with tears.

This has been a lesson in human emotion and I walk away a more educated person for having dealt with thousands and thousands of letters.

You've changed my life in a powerful way and I will remain eternally grateful for having had the privilege of writing this column.

To all the newspaper editors who have supported my column by providing the much coveted space-I thank you. I could never have done it without you. And also a special thanks to Creators Syndicate and their President, Rick Newcombe, for backing me every step of the way.

A couple of loose ends I'd like to tie up. First, there remains roughly $150,000 left over from the funds raised for Lisa Howard, the young lady who received a heart/double lung transplant.

These funds have been established in a trust, and are available for another individual in need of organ transplantation. One stipulation made, however, by the Attorney General of Minnesota-it must go to a Minnesota resident. So, for any of my Minnesota readers, please let me hear from you if you know of someone who could benefit from Second, the fund raising for Jalayne Noonan's service dog was an overwhelming success and there remains $50,000 left over to give away 5 service dogs. So again, if you know of an individual whose life would be enhanced by receiving a service dog, please let me hear from you.

In both cases, my post office box remains the same, so write me at P.O. Box 39000, Minneapolis, MN 55439. If nothing else, drop me a line and say, "Good luck, Percy!"

And third, I've set aside $200,000 prize money for an automobile safety contest, which I'd like to see transpire within the next year. Each year the growing number of fatal car accidents tear loved ones apart. This is one of the last things I'd like to accomplish in my lifetime-to create a greater need of awareness for safety on our highways.

In closing, my loyal editor, Nancy Webber, cautioned me not to feel too bad about ending the column. She reminded me that it was better this way, to have given away all my money, than it would be for her to write my obituary column.

Thank God I still have Laurian, my wife of 60 years and very best friend.

Well, that's it, folks. So much to say, so little space to do it in. I may be retiring from newsprint, but I'll continue to seek financial opportunities in our capitalistic society. In other words, I need to get a job.

And, if by chance I can make another pile of money, I'll be back giving it away. Until then... Thanks a Million!

Drunk driving laws welcome too late

To the Editor:

Talk about unfortunate timing! After many years of waiting, we finally have a workable plan to keep drunk drivers off the road. Coincidentally with this great news came the never-ending eulogy for Tiger Stadium.

If the penalties are enforced equally (average citizen, celebrity, athlete, politician etc.), the new laws should definitely keep repeat offenders out of the driver's

This news may come too late for many people who have lost a loved one through tragedy caused by a drunk driver, however, there is a very good chance many lives will be saved in the future.

I never did like the idea of confiscating the family car, depriving the entire family of transportation instead of putting the onus on the individual drunk driver. Gone will be the days of using "impaired driving" as an alternate charge and a reduced penalty. It is a known fact, driving under the influence of alcohol can kill, not only the driver but innocent people.

I tip my hat to salute Candice Miller, Secretary of State and to former Judge Valdemar Washington, designer of the new electronic tether for convicted drunk drivers Let us hope that the "do-gooders" and ACLU do not succeed in trying to get this new law removed from the books!

Thank you, Anthony B. Brehler Livonia

Hamlet fought to aid quality of life

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to a letter written by Donna Harder in the September 30, 1999 Wayne Eagle.

I decided to take a stand on a rezoning issue many months ago because I felt strongly about it from a personal viewpoint. My mother would have said, "Vickie, you have chosen a hard row to hoe," Obviously she would have been right. I didn't realize at the time mud slinging by using selective memory would be part of it.

Originally I fought the rezoning because I was trying to retain the value of my home and a way of life which my family had chosen when we purchased our home in good faith between two R1AA restricted residences.

I am not trying to deny any neighbor their right nor do I think my right should be de-

If Mr. and Mrs. Hermatz want to sell their home as it has always been a R1AA residence I will be more than happy to help them pack.

Having studied this issue as I would be the most adversely affected, I found out many things. The rezoning of this R1AA to commercial B-2 goes against the city's master plan which serves as a guideline. It also sets a precedent in the City of Wayne. Setting this precedent is opening the door for corporations to not only be able to encroach down Glenwood and Newburgh where a business currently sits on the corner, but will allow corporations to come into other areas of Wayne where there are currently businesses on the corners and encroach down those streets threatening the value of homes in those areas.

The mayor says this will be done on a case to case basis. I believe once a precedent has been set a court of law will not say it is okay for one and not

This is what I said to people at the Wheelfest and in many neighborhoods during the petition signing. I also told them this was just to put the item on the ballot. Because so many people could eventually be affected by setting this precedent they should have the right to vote on it whether or not they agree with me. If Ms. Harder had truly paid attention to our supposed conversation and read the petition she would realize that it does not address Arbor Drugs, but the rezoning from residential R1AA to commercial B-2.

As far as property values going down I don't know if Ms. Harder is a qualified appraiser. I had my home appraised by a number of people who do this for their livelihood. They unanimously agreed that I would most definitely lose considerable value on my home if I were located next to this commercial property. (Because of the exposure of my home to the parking lot and lighting).

Ms. Harder, you may bruise me with a personal attack but my mother raised me to never given up on anything I truly believed in.

My mother has passed away, but I am very proud to have been her daughter and I know in my heart she would have reason to be proud of me to-

Taxes needed

To the Editor:

He did it again! Councilman Glenn Anderson certainly uses cable to his advantage. Once again, he brought up road resurfacing, saying we should have a master plan to do all roads - this was done after the administration submitted their plans to resurface some roads next season paying for same out of budgeted funds.

Anderson leaves the impression that if we had a master plan (whatever that is), we could do them all. But not once has he ever mentioned how we are going to pay for the undertaking. I know how folks, by a tax. That's the only way. But he doesn't want to tell you that. After all, he wants to get reelected, then he'll tell you.

Council members seem 'shady'

To the Editor:

I would like to commend Donna Harder on her loyalties to her mother Donna McEachern. It is a trait to be admired, as well as admitting her letter was biased since her mother is also the Mayor Pro Tem.

Mrs. Harder informed citizens that rudeness is rampant at the city hall meetings, in which I agree. I have attended several meetings in the past few months. But Mrs. Harder neglected to inform citizens that council members are also being rude and disrespectful to the citizens in attendance.

Councilwomen Lentine has informed Wayne citizens "To deal with it" when decisions that the council makes are not in the best interest of the citizens. While Mayor Pro Temp McEachern can be heard making rude huffing noises into the microphone as citizens or other council members speak. Even as I watch the meetings on TV I frequently hear Pro Tem McEachern over the speakers comments.

Yes rudeness is rampant among the meetings but please don't put the blame on the citizens in the audience. The council members themselves deserves credit when credit is due. As for Shirley Powers! Attorney Clark gave her the right to vote. Her views haven't changed she still wants the Arbors (CVS) to be built. She only wants to do the right thing and wait until November 2, 1999 and let the citizens vote on the rezoning of the one lot.

As for talk of shady and political manipulation, lets talk of Mayor Warfield showing up at September 21, 1999 meeting only to vote on the Arbor (CVS) site plan approval and then leaving due to the heart cauterization he had done earlier that day. Yes there is shady political manipulation going on, not by 1 or 2 members but several councilmembers. Especially since 5 out of 7 members have pushed the CVS project through when the zoning commission denied it twice, on the grounds it was not in the best interest of the city. People who live in glass houses snould not throw stones!

I have no hidden agenda in writing this letter. I do not live in the Newburgh area. My only hope and concern is to ask the citizens to become aware and involved with what goes on in our hometown, the City of Wayne. I believe a majority of the councilmembers have chosen big business over the interest of Wayne citizens.

One last thing no wants to deprive the Hermatz of selling their home as R1AA, just not as B1 which is not in the city's master plan!

Sincerely, Arlene J. Ursem Wayne

MediaOne rebuilding network

To the Editor:

My MediaOne team and I spend many hours talking with our customers, finding out what we're doing well, and what we need to improve upon. Because so many people have taken the time to talk with us, I wanted to share some of the things we've done recently to bring customers the entertainment, communications and information services they want, with the best possible customer service.

First of all, customers have told us they don't like the outages and disruptions associated with rebuilding our broadband network. We don't like them either. The good news is that we have nearly completed the rebuild of our networks. The upgrades we have made will allow us to deliver more video channels, greater reliability and improved picture and sound quality. We apologize for these temporary interruptions, but we hope our customers understand they are a necessary challenge that will bring longterm benefits.

More good news: In addition to more and better video services, this powerful new broadband network will bring "always one," easy, open access to the Internet through MediaOne Road Runner highspeed Internet service, and eventually the best in competitively priced local telephone service through MediaOne Digital Telephone Services. There will continue to be follow-up field work on our rebuilt network over the next several months, but we'll do our best to complete the task with a minimum of disruption.

Customers have told us it's sometimes difficult to reach us when they have a question or problem. The good news: We have assembled a dedicated, experienced and diverse team of customer service professionals who are working hard to provide assistance. We've also increased the size of the team by about 40 percent recently in order to serve customers more effectively.

We've also established a special telephone system that allows customers to get through more easily and be routed to the right person whether they have a problem for us to solve or an order to place. We've also added special messages that can inform you of an outage in your area without having to wait to talk to us (the phone lines can be very busy when an outage occurs), and if you choose, our new automated system can answer many standard questions about your account.

We know that your time is valuable. That's why we offer an "on-time guarantee." If you are awaiting service installation, we guarantee that your installation will be on time, or it will be free. Additionally, any repair you require will be handled on time, or we'll give you a $20 credit on your bill.

In short, we've been busy rebuilding our network to bring customers the best in video, telephone and Internet services. Our customers service team is larger and more experienced than ever before, and we stand ready to serve. Our commitment is to make customer service number one at MediaOne.

If you have any comments on how we can better serve you, please call us on this special comment line, 1-800-201-9306, or e-mail us at wecare@MEdiaone.com.

Sincerely,

Milton Mayfield MediaOne Customer Advo-

President sets record straight

Letter to the Editor:

I am deeply concerned and somewhat politically fearful of the behavior of my membership and executive board, in refusing to give second to a motion that would have permitted one of the candidates, for the City of Westland Council to be treated equal as the other five candidates were treated. Better yet, to be treated as this organization by laws and constitutions stipulators Act 4 Sec 9B.

The part of the situation that politically and morally nauseates me is, there were not less than five minorities present, not one of them would say the "one word" that would have given me (the chairman) the right to see that the candidate "David James" was treated equal.

I say to you minorities, spe-

Let me remind you of a few things; it took years of marching, singing, and praying withstanding water hose pressure of more than fifty pounds per square inch, being bitten by police dogs, beaten by policemen, broken body parts, yes, and some gave their lives for the cause. "All you were asked for was justice." I don't have as much to say about the memberships because I believe the membership was a "stacked deck."

However there were enough members in the audience to see that, through proper procedure, all the candidates be treated equally according to Article 4 Section 9B of the constitution of this organization

I am asking all members or this democratic club including the exclusive board, be sure of your facts before driving home your opinions too forcibly, no one can overlook the probably of being right as well as the possibility of being wrong; again investigation such as a responsible group like you have the right to entertain would have revealed the deeds of the accuser is more Republican than the deeds of the ac-

An explosive ode to the world's main arms seller

Dear Editor,

From selling guns,/I've grown obese,/But still pretend,/I'm seeking peace.

It's a small enough honor -World's Leading Arms merchant. The White House isn't bothering with a Rose Garden ceremony. Nor are the gun and plane manufacturers putting on a gala dinner. The Pentagon press office didn't even put out a release, and the President skipped over it in his Saturday radio address.

Nonetheless, the honor has been duly earned. In 1998 the United States sold new armaments worth $7.1 billion, up from $5.7 billion the year before. Germany lagged in second place at $5.5 billion. And those sales don't even include what we give away, chiefly to Israel. The good news is that we're way down from the old days. In 1993 we sold $21.5 bil-

At least one might assume that such a big long-term drop in arms sales was good news. Our government, after all, does speak from time to time of promoting world peace, reducing armed conflict, and cutting back on the availability of weapons. But when the speeches are over, we go right back out and sell them licketysplit.

Though "selling" is sometimes a misleading term. Many buyers lack cash. To them we offer credit. But then when they can't pay, we don't demand the weapons back. Instead, we pay off the manufacturers out of funds set aside for that purpose.

Nor do we care much about whom we sell to. No, of course we won't ship to socialist countries; but a nation's failure in human rights seems to be of little concern. Just now, for instance, we're increasing shipments to Columbia, currently the brutality leader of the Western Hemisphere. That draws one's mind back to earlier sales, to other Latin butchers in Guatemala, EL Salvador, Chile, and Argentina. In Turkey our weapons go to bomb Kurdish villages, and in Indonesia, to shooting Tim-

A buyer's lack of democracy isn't of much concern either. Our heaviest sales go to oil sheikdoms in the Middle East. They may not hold elections, and they may not care about justice, but they back capitalism and pay cash.

We also cheerfully sell to both sides in many local disputes. Turkey and Greece come to mind, as do Chile and Argentina, Peru and Ecuador, Israel and Egypt, and earlier, Iraq and Iran. Both sides in the Congo still use our guns.

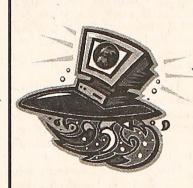

Needless to say, this focus on dealing in weapons weakens our credibility as a citadel of peace. We frequently pontificate at the United Nations and other forums about the need to lay down arms. That's like a drug dealer preaching abstinence. Instead of earning the title of peacemaker, we've earned the title of hypocrite.

And that label goes double for nuclear weapons. We castigate India, Pakistan, North Korea, and Iran for joining the nuclear race, which we lead by 20 years. Then we spend billions to get ahead by 40 years.

Fortunately, there exist private groups which sincerely carry the weapons reduction ball. Activists in Belgium just forced out an arms bazaar which had been held there for 18 years. That makes sense when you study a matrix produced by Economists Allied for Arms Reduction. It shows the total annual world military budget. Occupying but one quarter of that matrix are the proposed annual expenses to provide the whole world with health care, water, energy, food, birth control, shelter, and literacy, and to put an end to deforestation, soil erosion, acid rain, and global warming. None of these, unfortunately, offers the same profits as selling guns. Sincerely, William A. Collins

"For the Lord has not given us the spirit of fear"

The Coalition to Repeal Proposal E (the pro-casino voter question that was approved in 1996) has filed a four-page affidavit demanding that its 277,815 petition signatures finally be counted.

The coalition is also asking that another state-wide casino vote be allowed in the year 2000.

The Rev. Allen B. Rice II, (formerly pastor of the Beleville United Methodist Church) and currently campaign director for the coalition, along with Bill McMaster, campaign consultant, noted in their affidavit that two members of the 1998 Board of State Canvassers, who they claim had conflicts of interest in favor of the gambling casino operators and against its repeal, have been replaced by Gov. John Engler.

"Our right to petition government for redress of grievances was thrwarted last year by Canvassers James Alexander and James O'Neill Jr.," they stated.

Rice and McMaster added "we filed more than 247,127 petition signatures required to earn a place on the 1998 ballot, but the board refused to count all of the valid signataures.

"Our boxes of petition signatures have remained in the safe keeping custody of the Secretary of State," they said. "And the new Board of State Convassers have not be asked to count and certify the petition signatures, we worked so hard to collect and file."

The coalition is pressing that the voters be given a chance to repeal the change in Michigan's Constitution that was narrowly approved in 1996.

Children's Sabbath comes to Belleville

A theme of helping children to learn and succeed will be stressed this month, as the Rev. Sally Boelter kicks off a national Children's Sabbath program at the Trinity Episcopal Church of Belleville.

The program will be conducted across the U.S. on Oct. 15, 16 and 17 under the sponsorship of Children's Defense Fund. Also supporting the effort nationally will be the Catholic Charities U.S.A., the National Council of Churches of Christ USA, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and 200 other such religious organizations.

This year's program will concentrate on preparing children to flourish and succeed through early learning experiences at home and school, Boelter said.

She said "every day we feel a sense of crisis about our kids – their health and safety, their role models, peer violence, drug use, sex and peer pressure."

Boelter added "We want to take a positive approach, showing what adults can do to strengthen our children, and how much children have to offer adults."

Gum Disease: The Battle for Your Mouth Question: I'm afraid I have "gum disease." What is it and can it be cured?

Answer: Many patients come in with the complaint of bleeding gums or gums that are painful and sensitive. They are most likely experiencing a condition called gingivitis. Gingivitis is the inflammation of the gums which is caused by bacteria and their products. These bacteria live in the plaque and tartar that forms on your teeth at the gumline.

Gingivitis is an early stage of gum disease. It is completely reversible with regular professional cleanings and proper home care. However, if the process of gum disease is allowed to progress, you may begin to experience the next stages of the disease, called periodontal disease. The inflammation of the gums will eventually spread down the surface of the tooth and begin to affect the bone and ligaments which hold the tooth in place. At this stage, gum disease is usually not completely reversible. However, with professional care, it can be stopped or stabilized at a level which will allow you to maintain your teeth in a healthy state.

That is why it is so important to maintain your home care and to regularly see the dentist for your cleanings. Call today for your appointment and take that step toward maintaining a healthy mouth.

MICHIGAN COMMUNITY NEWSPAPER

Newspaper celebrates anniversary in grand style

The finalists line up in hopes of winning the new wheels.

Steve Erdman, Jack Demmer Ford, draws the name of a lucky finalist.

By CAROL MARSHALL MCN Staff Writer

When Michigan Community Newspaper publisher Mike Wilcox says thank you, he says it in a big way.

The publisher of six community newspapers: The Beleville Enterprise, Canton Eagle, Inkster Ledger Star, Romulus Roman, Wayne Eagle and Westland Eagle, wanted to extend thanks to the newspapers' advertisers on MCN's five-year anniversary. And what better way to say thank you than to offer up a shiny, new 2000 Mustang convertible?

In the past, Wilcox has awarded prizes to readers, but said he felt is was time to offer something to the many business owners who support the newspapers. So, he held a contest in which a lucky business would win the car.

The drawing was held at a gala party at the end of September. Just to tease a bit, a name was drawn every 15 minutes at the party. The person whose name was drawn became the proud owner of a key. One of the ten keys drawn would start the Mustang from Jack Demmer Ford.

Ben E. and the Jets.

Tension and excitement built as the night hummed along to the music stylings of Ben E. and the Jets. Then each contestant got a chance to start the Mustang.

Dennis Hermatz, owner, Wayne Lawn & Garden, was the lucky winner, but there were no losers at the fun-filled event. There was plenty of food, music, dancing and drink. And while the odds of winning the car were one in 83, a good time was a sure thing.

The other finalists in the contest were: Walt Michals RV Center, U.S. Park, Team Players, Sandy's Marina, Novell Services, Auto Ameristar, Captain Nemo's, Accurate Carpet and the Beehive restaurant.

Seniors on the move

Family, friends will celebrate life of Nora Bird on Saturday

MCN Staff Writer

When you've lived through most of the century, you certainly have a lot of stories to tell. One such person recently passed away, but left behind her story that reads like the story of America's 20th century. The family of former Belleville resident Nora Bird invites the community to celebrate her life in a memorial service this Saturday.

She was born October 7, 1901 in Gaylord, Mich, the fifth child and second daughter of William A. and Louise Moore. She married R. Merrill Bird on Sept. 6, 1924, in Wayne, Mich. He served Belleville as the community's first Chamber of Commerce president. He preceded her in death in 1982. Both were active in community affairs: Rotary, Wayne County Fair, and organ and garden clubs. They were founding members of Trinity Episcopal Church in Belleville.

Nora passed away in August at the age of 97 at the Clark Retirement Home in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Before she passed, however, Nora and her daughter, Merrelyn, collaborated on a book which chronicled this remarkable woman's life. "I'm so glad now we took the time to write this family book," says Merrelyn. "Her great granddaughters say, 'Our Mimi was a real American Girl, like Samantha, my doll."

Shortly after Nora's birth, her family moved to Wayne, then a small town, and her parents bought the Commercial Hotel on the corner of Michigan Avenue and Wayne Road, on the end of the Interurban Streetcar Line from Detroit. "Teddy Roosevelt was then the President of the United States," recalled Nora.

The family lived over the hotel, and her mother managed the hotel, dining room and kitchen, while her father ran the saloon and the business. Nora lived at the hotel until she married at the age of 23. She records in her book some of the day-to-day activities revolving around managing a household and business in the early part of the century. and even the most ordinary activities--gathering water from a rain barrel, scrubbing laundry with a scrub board and wringer, getting around by horse and carriage or trainremind us of how very much things have change over the course of one lifetime.

Then, there are some things that never change. Nora began high school in 1915, while the United States was engaged in the first world war. "They boys in my grade were too young to go, so there were still dates and dances and athletic games. I played guard in girl's basketball, but that was just for fun, not a varsity sport....A favorite dress I remember in high school was the one I wore to the Junior Prom. It was a lovely yellow silk organza waltz-length dancing dress with lots of ruffles. I asked Ernie Harrison to go with me, which was the customer when your class was having the party and that was BAD. Aunt K was shocked and my mother was not at all pleased either. He was 24 and much too old for me. Ernie was an excellent dancer and I really wanted to dance at that party. Boys my age weren't that good at dancing," she recalled.

She met her future husband, Merrill, while she was a freshman at Wayne High, and he was a senior, and captain of the football and track teams. "He said he noticed me and thought I was pretty, but he had another girlfriend at the time, and I had some other beaus too," Nora said. "It was Aunt K who knew when I broke up with Jim Chambers and suggested I ought to go out with her young banker friend, Merrill Bird, and set him up to ask me. I was 22 by then.' Nora recalled the courtship was possible because of her hair. Her boyfriend broke up with her because she bobbed her hair. But she had no regrets: "I really liked the new look, and I think Merrill did too, for he asked me out a week later." They married a year later, and three years later, in 1927, started a family.

They couldn't have known at the time that Merrill's job at the bank would be gone only four years later, when the country crumbled after the stock market crashed in 1931.

"We not only lost all of our savings, owned many shares of worthless stock in a defunct bank, but we still felt we had to pay off those from whom Merrill had borrowed the money to buy that stock....We were luckier than most, for Merrill found another job in Albion, though it meant we would have to move. We could not even sell our home, as there were no buyers and most people were barely able to feed their families," Nora said. But they were able to move back to southeast Michigan in 1938.

Surviving are her children: great- grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

Local voters turn the lights on for city, Detroit Edison

Last week a limited number of voters in Romulus turned out - and turned on the lights for their city fathers (and mothers) as well as Detroit Ed-

Romulus has a potential voter list of about 15,000 persons - meaning those 18 years of age and above.

Those who turned out or submitted an absentee ballot totaled only 1,530.

No one would consider that a large number - except for the fact that some Romulus City Hall insiders expected that the voter number would have been even lower - ranging in estimates from 600 to 900

Ironically Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell told this writer the Friday before the election - "we feel we need a minimum of 1,500 votes to win."

The vote count as stated was 30 votes above that number listed by Bedell and thus the school package (that carried a tax reduction if approved) was passed by only 40 votes.

That appears really strange. Can you imagine if the same thing happened in the commercial field. For instance how busy would the Romulus IGA cash registers be if owner Dennis Swaney told customers

"prove you are a city resident and shop here and we will pay you a dollar to pick up a free five pound can of cof-

That was similar to the combined school district/city offer to voters. They were told "agree to creating a new grade school, a pool at the high school, major technology changes at local schools, a new city recreation building with another pool and it won't cost you the homeowner a dollar.

"In fact we not only will give it to you free, but we will cut your taxes to boot – up to $23 a year on a $100,000 home and property," the city and school district said in essence.

But voters didn't get or didn't believe the offer - and thus the vast majority stayed home or went to the last game at Tiger Stadium.

Even Mother Nature tried to sweeten the package and the day - which earlier had been forecast for rain off and on all day - gave the city and school district a gift of total sunshine.

How could voters turn down such a deal?

In most areas such millage proposals would have won with 70% of the vote and 50 to 60% turnout.

Most people like free gifts!!! Checking with local voters...many people feel they questions...or the answers didn't fully cover the scopes of their questions on the city is-

Councilman Don Morris told a visitor to the council chambers a week before the election "people would have to have their head in a hole not to know there was an election coming up.'

But the voters showed...it didn't make a difference on how many voters knew there was an election...it was how many understood the issues and cared to show up on election day."

Some complained about Mayor William Oakley's comments that "only those who planned to vote yes...need to show up on election day."

The mayor's backers said it was only typical Oakley humor why he even smiled when he said it on the televised 'Mayor's Chair' program.

Others said "smile or not...we thought it was a political statement...and we wanted to smile back in the voting booth.'

In reality the message to the city, school district and Detroit Edison was "be open and upfront with us and most of all tell the truth."

Why do you keep mentioning Detroit Edison? Well particularly for out of town readers, Edison had a ballot position asking for a 30-year franchise ordinance agreement with the city of Romulus.

Edison apparently did not send one notice to the voters on the voting issue...at least no one this writer talked to received one.

Thus like in the above city and school district cases...persons who did not understand the proposal voted First election observers felt despite the lack of information supplied by Edison the proposal passed.

But then it was announced Edison needed to gain 60 percent of the vote. City Clerk Linda Choate announced last Tuesday that the effort failed.

When Edison was told it failed...they demanded a technical recount ... not of votes, but of percentages.

City Attorney Stephen Hitchcock did such and changed his verdict and said didn't get answers to their the measure passed by a slim

His reasoning the 60% needed to address the number of voters, who cast ballots on that single issue. Since 65 voters were so confused they failed to vote "yes" or "no," when the mathematics was redrawn Edison squeaked by.

So what are the voters say-

They are telling all concerned "speak up (and not only just before election days) if you want our votes. And remember that before the next election."

To the school district the voters are saying "we supported you again. How about paying us back by televising the school board meetings and creating some half hour shows on the educational cycle here."

The school board voter package was aided by open houses in the schools on election day. It wasn't hard to convince those at the open houses "to go down the hall and vote on the millage issues.'

Many voters said they still would have preferred more open forums on the millage issues and a booth on the cityschool proposals at the Pumpkin Festival that was held only days before the election.

To Mayor Oakley, the voters are saying "encourage your department heads to speak out more to the press and public. We need to know more what is going on in our city!"

An to Detroit Edison, the voters are saying "don't take us for granted."

A more benevolent resident, a retired motel owner, smiled and said gently "just tell Detroit Edison -- we'll leave the light on for them!"

'American' beautiful surprise that comes out of the movie business shocks me. I have seen everything from a hot love scene to a family dinner on the screen and all in the same movie.

I felt, as I was recently walking into the theater, that what I was about to see could not blow me away with anything that they threw at me. I'll be the first one to admit when I left the theater I was blown away, I was wrong. The new release American Beauty blew the wind out of me.

It stars Kevin Spacey as Lester Burnham, a middle aged man with a major life crisis. He has a job in the advertising world and it really is not what he has expected his life would be like. He had hoped for

His wife Carolyn, brilliantly played by Annette Benning, is a blood sucking real estate agent who must have every aspect of her life perfect. This, she feels, shows everyone she is the perfect business women. Basically she does everything like a Martha Stewartesque home. Her dinner is on the table, a perfect balanced meal of taste and beauty. Her rose garden shines through the windows in all their glory. Enoght, basically to make a normal working woman sick.

Their daughter Jane, played by Thora Birch, is as far away in her mind as she wished she was in person. She wants nothing to do with her very weird parents, like many teenagers. She feels that she is very normal and there is nothing special about her in any way.

They put on a show for the outside world. They are the perfect family with no problems in their little world. They sit down for family meals, they go to bed at a decent time, they never argue, they always are at work, etc. Then a couple of new acquaintance enter their Jane starts to hang out with a girl named Angela at school. She is on the cheerleader squad with Jane. With a chance meeting after a game Lester becomes infatuated by the very thought of the luscious Angela. Body, mind, and soul lusts for her very existence.

He dreams about her and wonders possibly if she can on the interested with a middle aged father, who has nothing really going for him. He wants her to be his in the worst way and he nearly drives himself crazy doing it.

Then he meets a guy named Ricky who shows him how to cope with the world. Ricky is the new next door neighbor who not only provides Lester with strength mentally, but he also provides pot for him. Ricky has a weird hobby though, he likes to video tape things. Things of beauty to him. He can zoom in as close as he wants with out being actually close. This weird habit of his entices Jane into becoming his friend.

Carolyn, on the other hand, ends up with more of a colleague. She starts to hang out with "the king of real estate" Buddy Kane. Who is the top real estate sales person in the small town they live in. She is in utter awe of the very conversation that she holds with him and this makes them become very close.

During the whole befriending they all realize that they are missing something in their life. Whether it be a person's touch or even conversation that makes them feel good.

They become trapped in an illusion of the typical or normal family that everyone is expected to be in, but nobody actually ever is. They become far from the normal family in no time and this makes everyone around them step back and say "What the???"

This movie was quite different from the recent movies that have been released. With all the ghost stories and action movies that have hit the screen recently this is quite refreshing to watch.

Spacey gives a magnificent portrayal of the most sad excuse of a man that has been shown on film. He has no back bone and then becomes something that many work an eternity to become. The transformation is a ride within itself. Not only does his character surprise you, but his performance makes it almost beleiveable.

Benning has been criticized for this role on more than one occasion. Many think she is to rough or insane to be a real type of portrayal. I have news for those critics, if they don't open their eyes they will never see the real woman that Benning is trying to show them. Not everyone can be June Clever. There are women who do push the envelope a little bit more then the previous contender. That's why her performance is both wonderful and sad all in the same mo-

The only bad thing in this whole film is you know the ending the first 5 minutes into the film. The catch is you never know who did it until you see the end. All the fingers throughout the movie point to everyone. You just have to see what finger is right.

Another thing to consider before you take the family out to see it. There is nudity and words many young ears and eyes rarely hear and see. A warning ahead of time you don't want to load up the whole family and catch this flick.

King Academy offers strong focus on technology

When it comes to teaching math, science and technology, it's never to early to start. From this philosophy was born King Academy, a K-6 school chartered by Inkster Public Schools, with a strong focus on technology.

In addition to math, science and technology, King Academy offers fine arts, such as foreign language and music. "We have a well-rounded program as well as all the traditional subjects," says Odessa Smith, assistant executive director.

And parents are agreeing with her. They're drawn to the availability of five computers in each class room, as well as to the plethora of educator workshops the staff and administration attend throughout the year. These are signs of the school's commitment to students, and the belief that they can and will succeed, if provided with the right tools. "I am unique. I am special," is

These students come to school ready to focus, donning brightcolored school uniforms, which ensure they're all on an even playing field in personal appearance. "It puts everyone on an equal level when it comes to their outward appearance," Smith says of the school's attire. "According to research, it makes the students more businesslike and creates a calm environment.'

The staff of 11 certified teachers which includes a certified special education teacher, and new teachers, fresh from major universities with the latest ideas and concepts in education and technology, and four paraprofessionals is also ready to learn. Attending workshops during the summer, and continuing education throughout the school year, they diligently learn how each student grasps certain subjects more easily than others. The trick is to apply concepts that cross the curriculum. So the student that grasps language ideas most easily can apply those skills to math and science, for example. Or the student who grasps musical ideas can apply those skills to language and math.

It's this creative approach that ensures King Academy can live up to its motto: "Excellence Without Exception." The small class size which averages 19 students per teacher makes it possible for more individualized instruction. Co-teaching and team teaching provides rich, collaborative instruction for the stu-

Fairfax County, Va., is one of the nation's most forwardlooking jurisdictions. Just outside Washington, D.C., the county is committed to providing its citizens the best services available - particularly in the field of education.

In keeping with this commitment, the county's Office of Partnership recently installed a new online computer network at the $30,000 computer lab at Stonegate Apartments in Reston, Va.

The new computer service -Tutornet.com - lets students share math and science homework problems with human teachers over the Internet. The homework-help program provides, in effect, virtual classrooms. Certified teachers are on one end; students at the other end are able to reach them with their problems.

Two years ago, through donations from IBM, AT&T, InterFor more information about Tutornet, call 1-877-TUTORKIDS, or click on www.tutornet.com.

Sandy Lowe, director of the county's Office of Partnership, said the idea behind the labs is to bring technology into communities that might otherwise not have access to computers.

"It is important to us that these kids have the technology close to home. We don't want them to have to leave their neighborhoods to get to computers," she said.

Since the county began the computer labs in low-income developments, there have been visible signs of success, Lowe said. "You can see interpersonal skills between the children have improved," she said, "and there has been enormous interest in the computers."

It was not by accident that the county chose Tutornet. Launched late last year, the McLean, Va.-based company is already one of the leaders in network education.

Euburn Forde, founder and chairman of Tutornet, cited estimates that over 75 percent of math and science students at some time need additional help, either to stay up with grade level performance or to truly excel.

'Many schools no longer have the budgets and resources to support after-school tutoring," Forde said. "Turtonet.com is designed to fill this need.

"I always thought technology should be brought to the masses," he added. "The potential this carries is that for the first time in human history, we have the ability to offer a first-rate education to all children.'

Forde says the next step for Tutornet will be to offer English as a second language over the Internet.

'Quality and Service' are Accurate Floor Covering

The Goff family seems to know the secret to success. After all, they have been in the flooring business for 10 years now and continue to provide the same level of quality service and products that they did back in 1989. Art Goff, and his son Craig, remain adament in the claim that "satisfying customers needs" is the most important thing in business.

After a fire destroyed all of their store in 1996, Accurate Floor opened up again on October 1st. This time though, they unveiled their newly designed store and at the same time, became America's newest Mohawk Floorscapes participating retailer. According to Craig Goff, "By adding the Mohawk Floorscapes name to ours, we're building on our reputation for quality and service by offering customers the latest concepts in flooring fashion, style, color and performance." Accurate Floor sells and installs vinyl flooring, pre-finished hardwood floors and carpeting for both residential and commercial use. It also does custom work, including borders, inlays and logos.

This family business is proud of the service they provide and are reassured of their quality performance through their return customers and the referrals they make to their friends and family. Inkster, Romulus are playoff - bound

Vikings make grid history

"We're proud of the achievement," said the 32-year-old Townsend, who has coached are not only on the verge of for six years. "But we can't at this time focus on the post season when so much is at stake in the regular season.

'We have Highland Park next. They are coming off of a big victory over Robichaud,' Townsend continued. "They have a solid team with an excellent running attack. Our mistakes cost us three touchdowns last week because of penalties - and if that occurs this week, we're going to be in trouble.'

With a 20-7 victory over Gibraltar Carlson Friday night See VIKING, page B-8 before an enthusiastic Homecoming crowd estimated at 2,000, undefeated Romulus cleared a major obstacle in its path in making Mega Conference football history.

If coach Mark Woodson's Eagles can stop Trenton on Friday, they will become the first conference football team to win championships in two separate divisions in the Mega.

Romulus posted a perfect 9-0 record a year ago in winning the Mega Conference Gold Division's title, and a victory Friday at Trenton would give them the Blue Division title outright.

'It will be a tough assignment," warns Woodson, about his team's upcoming challenge. "Trenton also is undefeated in the division and has a team that, on any given night, can beat anyone. We beat Carlson, but we did it by playing over our mistakes.

Bounces just aren't going Wayne's way

The football isn't bouncing Wayne's way this season.

Tales and tribulations of 2 previously undefeated teams

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

With the departures Friday night of Westland John Glenn and Belleville from the ranks of the undefeated, there remains but two undefeated teams in the area - Inkster and Romulus.

Title-bound Livonia Stevenson slashed Glenn's five-game winning streak, 21-6, before the Spartans' homecoming crowd, while Monroe and Chad Mosher stopped Belleville in the showdown of the Mega Conference Red Division title hopefuls, 35-14.

The losses leave Glenn and Belleville one victory shy of clinching playoff berths. Glenn has the opportunity to redeem itself before a Rocket Homecoming crowd Friday night.

That's when coach Tom Moshimer and the Plymouth-Salem Rocks., who beat North Farmington last week for their first win, visit the Westland high school's stadium.

In the meantime, coach Bob LaPointe's Tigers are at home to Ypsilanti. The Tigers always seem to bring the best out of their neighboring rivals. It's one of those "forget records" rivalries. But Belleville is the odds-on-favorite in this one, their seventh game.

Some 4,000 fans showed up for the Glenn-Stevenson matchup that was the of the key game in the Western Lakes, Lakes Division, last

Both teams went into the divisional showdown with perfect 4-0 Lakes records, and the fans did not go away disappointed.

Stevenson got on the scoreboard early in the second quarter as Spartan quarterback Eric Rize capped a 76yard sustained march with a handoff to Jon Van Buren, who 10 times and completed seven passes for 153 yards which turned the tide of the game. And for the first time in recent years, the Glenn offense was held to 51 yards, although quarterback Randy Sinnott completed four of four passes, good for only short distances.

On defense, again Jake Tharp and Chad Sansom stood out for the Rockets.

Then, Dan Wilson, who played a key role in Glenn's demise, came through with the first of three conversions, lifting the Spartans to a 7-6 lead.

Coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets came back after the half and marched 67- yards as senior running back Eric Jones scored the first and what proved the team's only TD of the game.

The touchdown was set up by a broken play.

It could not have come at the worst time.

A uplifting home crowd in the stands, and in dire need of a victory, Robichaud watched what may have been the decisive touchdown against a visiting Highland Park team nullified due to an official's decision that cost them a 12-8 Mega Conference, Gold Divi-

The ball popped loose from Winn's hands on the play, and rolled out of the end zone. The official ruled a touchback but, a later review of the game film apparently showed that Winn's knee was on the goal line when he was brought down, which should have been a tou-

"It was his (the official's) call, and you can't do much about it. But I felt that that decision cost us the ball game."

In a game scheduled to be played at Highland Park but switched for Robichaud because the Parkers' field was undergoing some repairs, the Bulldogs dropped their fifth consecutive game, and head into Friday 7 p.m. game with Dearborn Heights Crestwood with an anemic 1-5 overall record.

Salem snaps losing streak

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

Plymouth-Salem put it all together Friday night for a Homecoming crowd.

"We finally got the offense going, and the defense played up to its potential," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer, after the Rocks snapped a five-game losing streak at the expense of North Farmington.

Salem hopes to ride the momentum of the 21-7 victory over North into Friday night's game in Westland against a highly-touted John Glenn team.

The Rockets are coming off of a very disappointing loss, their first of the season, to divisional title contender, Livonia Stevenson. Stevenson will play Farmington for the Lakes Division title, and the winner gets Walled Lake Western in the championship game of the Western Lakes Conference.

Moshimer knows he is in for a battle at Glenn, which, deprived of the divisional title, is looking to clinch a post-season playoff berth. The Rockets need one more victory in order to accomplish that goal. 'They are an excellent team," said Moshimer, commenting on his next opponent's ability. "It's also Glenn's homecoming, and you can bet they are going to come after us with everything they have.' Salem played as if it were involved in a title game against North. At stake was which team would become the Lakes Division's doormat for the 1999 The two first-quarter Salem

Patterson went to the air 18 times and competed only four for 29 yards, but three of the 18 passes were picked off, a tribute to Lincoln Park's defense.

But there were some bright spots for Wayne, and the light at the end of the tunnel came through on defense thanks to Willie Perryman, who had six initial hits and six assists, and Hampton, who came up big with nine initial hits and five assists, and the second defensive back also managed to deflect a LP pass.

Also standing out on defense were Wayne's Chris Williams, Gwinyai Mumbiro, and Tom Todd.

Williams was credited with 10 initial hits and four assists, while Mumbiro finished with six initials and three assists and Todd chipped in with five initial tackles and two assists.

Scott Whelan and Williams also were credited with fumble recoveries.

Wyandotte is a crossover Mega Conference game, and will not have any bearing on the Mega Conference Red Division standings. Wayne must beat Ypsilanti a week from Friday on the home turf if it wants to avoid a last place finish in the conference.

when Coble again found the crease from 16-yards out.

The senior QB's 161-yard rushing on 19 attempts and two touchdowns was a career best.

Parkers' senior tailback Ken Calhoun capped a firstquarter drive with a touchdown from the six that put the visitors up, 6-0, and, though the Bulldogs had a first-half touchdown called back -Winn's quarterback sneak was nullified because of an illegal procedure call, the Bulldogs did take an 8-6 lead in the third period.

After the half, Robichaud came back with a drive that culminated with Darris Robinson's five-yard touchdown run. Teammate Chris Larkins contributed the two-point conversion that put the Bulldogs in front, 8-6.

However, Preston Black's 39-yard TD pass to receiver Michael Swan gave the Parkers what proved to be the decisive touchdown.

Robinson finished with 64 yards rushing on 15 carries, while Winn connected on five of 12 passes for 90 yards.

Medlock commended the play of cornerback Corlin Weston, who had five solos.

Crestwood, says Medlock, is a "well disciplined team and will capitalize on a team's mistakes.

"We just can't make any mistakes over there," the Robichaud coach added.

Twisters edge Motor City Cougars in season's finale

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

The Twisters will head into the Lake Shore Semiprofessional Football League playoffs with an impressive 8-2 record, the North Division title and a thrilling 17-13 victory on Saturday over their arch-rival, the Motor City Cougars in the regular-season finale.

"We're as ready as we will ever be for the playoffs," noted Playoffs are next for North Division champs Wayne County Twisters. "I am very pleased with the season, our chances in the playoffs and the future of this franchise are good." "We have some excellent players, many of whom are the products of the local schools,'

The Lake Shore Conference has at least two and could have three nationally-ranked teams, Brothers pointed out.

"This is a credit to all the local high school and college coaches who helped develop these players' abilities. The players are also well-disciplined young men with superior skills."

The Twisters will go into the playoffs as the top-seed in the LSFL North Division. They will host the runner-up of the LSFL South Division, the Lorain County Steelmen, in their initial appearance of the playoffs.

"It would be great to see a large crowd in support of our youth in their drive for the LSFL championship," said Jason Hagelthorn, who with his brother, Fred, are the head coach and offensive coordinator respectively for the Twisters.

The Twisters pulled out a 17-13 victory over the Motor City Cougars over the weekend to wrap up the regular season with an 8-2 record and the North Division title in the Lake Shore Semi-Professional Football League. CEO Glenn Brothers and staff will turn their focus on the conference playoffs as they host Lorain County, Ohio's Steelmen in the first round of the post-season. The game will be played at 3:30 p.m. Saturday at the old Cherry Hill High School. There is a small admission charge.

In the freshman game, it was all Devils, as they handed the Flyers their second loss of the season. The Flyers were never in the game as the Devils dominated from beginning to

The Devils opened the scoring with a punishing drive that went 70 yards and ate up six minutes of the clock. The Flyers never recovered from that initial drive as the Devils took a 26-0 lead and coasted to a 40-7 victory over their rivals.

Aaron Rollins' long run for a touchdown provided the Flyers with their only score in this game. Austin Anderson led the way on defense with his outstanding performance.

The junior varsity game was billed as a rematch between last year's junior varsity championship squads. However, this time things ended differently. The Flyers dominated the game both offensively and defensively and came out a 14-0 winner.

The score made the game appear close, but it was not as the Flyers had four touchdowns called back because of penalties.

It was a big day for Amash Gambles as he scored both tou-

On defense the Flyers were led by Doug Bonner and Brandon Bragg, both first-time starters at defensive end.

The Flyer defense never allowed the defending champs to cross the 50- yard line as the Flyer defense posted a coveted shutout in exact revenge from last year's disappointing lost in the championship game.

With this win the Flyer junior varsity upped its record to 3-1 and are presently tied for the final playoff spot.

If games were only two quarters, the Flyers' varsity would have won their game on Saturday.

The Flyers came out fast and furious on Saturday and grabbed a 7-0 lead early in the opening quarter. Midway through the second quarter the Flyers struck again on a long touchdown pass to take a 14-0 lead into the half.

In the second half, however, the Devils scored 22 unanswered points to turn back their peers, 21-14.

It was the Flyers' second setback of the season. James Kendrick led the Flyers on offense, while the defense got outstanding efforts from Georjon Garland and Matt Carr.

Throughout the day, the Flyers' cheerleaders kept the crowds' spirits high as the skies turned overcast and eventually the rains came.

The cheerleaders also should be commended for a "job well done."

Comets to host Lincoln on Sunday

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

The Westland Youth Athletic Association's Comets will have a Homecoming crowd on hand Sunday to help them break out of their doldrums.

Struggling throughout the 1999 campaign, the Comets find themselves winless on the little league curcuit as they prepare for the Ypsilanti Lincoln Railsplitters, who are their Homecoming rivals.

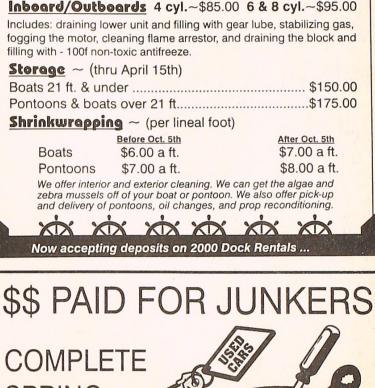

The traditional Homecoming Parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. from Marquette Avenue and travel to John Glenn High School, the home field of the

We are inviting all of our former players and coaches to attend this traditional gettogether," said Keith DeMolay, WYAA publicist. "The Rail-splitters have excellent teams and this series will be interesting to watch.'

The three game series will begin at noon, with the Freshmen Units taking to the field, followed by the Junior, then the Senior Varsity squads.

The admission to all three games is free.

The WYAA's Meteors will stage their Homecoming a week from Sunday on their home field, Wayne Memorial High School.

Company puts final touches on your home

By CAROL MARSHALL MCN Staff Writer

Whether you're contemplating replacing your roof or siding out of necessity, or just putting some final touches on a home you recently bought, Final Touch Home Improvement can help.

John Estep, owner of the nine-year-old business, specializes in home improvement from roofing and siding, to quality basements and kitchens.

"We do quality work and that's why so many of our customers refer so much work to us," he explains. "We really believe that the customer is always right, and people like that."

Estep and his dozen employees also realize that home improvements are inconvenient to the home owner, so he prides himself on the ability to replace a roof in one day, minimizing the amount of time the customers' lives will be disrupted.

But siding is another story, he explains. Too often, siding companies show up on the job site, and hurry to complete the job too quickly, resulting in sloppy work. "If it takes us a week or two to do the siding, then that's what it takes. We don't rush the job. We just work on it until it's finished, then move on to the next," he explains.

Estep is able to demand topnotch work from his crew, some of whom have been with him since he opened the company's doors, because he treats them well. Estep says, "My

That's why he looks for much more than a long list of skills when he's hiring his employees. "I look for a good attitude," he says, explaining that with time and attention, each worker will develop skills while working alongside Estep and his longtime help.

It's this winning attitude that ensures customers are treated like family, as well. "People compliment us all the time not only on the work we did, but on the way we clean up the job when we're done. It's like we were never there," Estep beams.

And while he has not had too many call backs over the last decade, when he has, he arrives on the job within 24 hours.

Nursery starts exciting new year, openings available

The Huron Countryside Cooperative Nursery pre-school (H.C.C.N.) started its new school year on September 20. The nursery, operated cooperatively by parents and Lois Winfield, teacher, holds morning and afternoon classes three days a week for fouryear-old students, and two days a week for three-year-old students.

H.C.C.N. provides a warm, loving atmosphere for children aged two and a half through five. Winfield is dedicating her 24th year of teaching preschool to H.C.C.N. The children are offered a well-rounded educational program featuring art, music, games exercise, stories, verbal expression and learning trips. They are also given the opportunity to develop social skills which builds confidence for a successful kindergarten experience.

Parents assist in class two to three time a month by supervising, encouraging and participating in activities. The cooperative nursery provides an excellent opportunity to meet your neighbors, and be involved in your child's or grandchild's early development.

For more information about enrollment, call (734) 941-3527, or stop by the nursery at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 19109 Craig St., New Boston.

Some of the nursery's fall activities include a visit to Apple Charlies Orchard, the nature center at Oakwood Metro Park, and a craft auction in November.

Counterfeit money confiscated

By IVAN HELFMAN MCN Staff Writer

A Westland man claimed he found a bank bag full of money. Problem was, the money was counterfeit and Westland police arrested the man for possession of counterfeit money and for passing it.

Police arrested the man bicycling down Merriman near Cherry Hill in Westland after a Merriman Burger King employee reported him for passing counterfeit money on the afternoon of Sept. 24

The suspect also fit the description of a man who passed bogus bills in Garden City.

The arresting officer saw a large bulge in the suspect's front right pants pocket. Not knowing if the bulge was a weapon, the officer patted it down. It turned out to be a wad of counterfeit dollar bills.

The suspect said that got the bills from a bank bag that he found near Ford and Middlebelt roads.

The suspect turned over 92 one-dollar bills, a bank bag, and his bicycle to the officer.

The officer drove the suspect to the Burger King, where an employee identified the suspect as the person who passed a counterfeit one-dollar bill. The employee gave the bill to the officer for evidence.

After the arrest, the suspect was held at the Westland police station while detectives investigated the allegations.

Over the summer, several Canton and Westland-area businesses reported receiving counterfeit money. Police did not indicate if this case was were related to the others.

Crop Walk team honors founder Father Hagan

MCN Staff Writer

Between 350-400 area Christians from nine Belleville-Romulus-Sumpter churches turned out Sunday to raise funds for those suffering from hunger both locally and worldwide.

Just before the massive group left the Community United Methodist Church's parking lot shortly after 1 p.m., the entourage honored the lo-cal Crop Walk's founder Father John Hagan.

Hagan stepped down as leader of the Crop Walk this Hagan was presented with a large ash walking stick made in Texas and a printed award.

The award stated Father Hagan "has humbly guided us through a decade and more of Crop Walks having as his sole mission the relief of hunger both at home and abroad.'

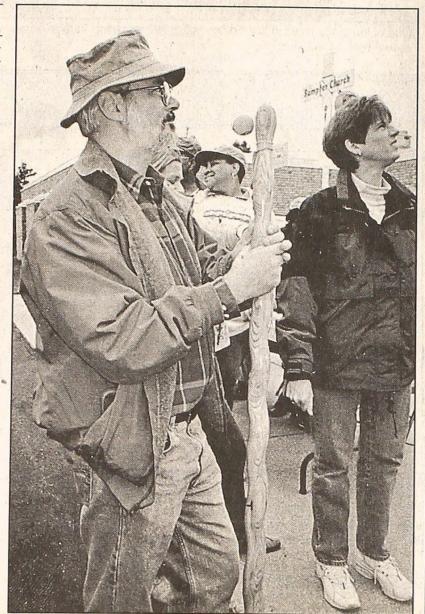

An old news clipping stated when the Crop Walks began in the late 1980's with 90 walkers traveling from one to 11 miles, raising $5,500 and creating local food aid checks of $338

Protests mount against trains delaying drivers

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

Hundreds of area residents have signed petitions asking that CSX cut its time blocking vehicle traffic in the Pennsylvania-Eureka road area.

Most of the petitions were signed at the Super J Foods No. II store at 37312 Eureka Road, Councilman William Wadsworth said Monday night.

Store manager Jesse Masada said he turned five sheets of the petition signatures over to Wadsworth prior to Monday night's meeting and has already collected another two to three sheets of citizens names on petitions since then.

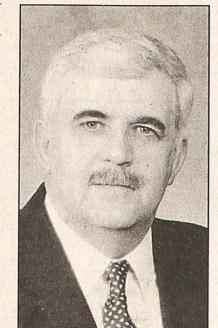

Masada said another business owner nearby has helped with the petition drive.

Wadsworth told a televised audience at the City Council meeting that he has learned that some recent shifts at the Lear Corp. have been delayed in starting, because employees were blocked from work by trains for up to 45 minutes.

Wadsworth said the other major complaint voiced by residents stuck in traffic – is that they can find no switchman at the scene to complain to.

Mayor William Oakley said if the council voted for a complaint resolution, it wouldn't hurt the city's on-going negotiations with the railroad.

The resolution was approved unanimously 6-0 (Mayor pro tem Randolph Gear was absent). Councilman

Bill Wadsworth

Leroy Burcroff also urged that both Police Chief Charles Kirby and Fire Chief David Allison write letters of safety concerns that develop during such traffic tie-ups.

Councilman William Crova also urged that the resolution, letters and copies of the petitions signed by the citizens be sent to elected officials (both state and federal) as well as the Department of Transportation

The petitions at the Super J Foods Store II state: "Are you tired of getting to work late or trying to get home after a long day's work, only to get caught by a CSX train?

"This is happening to people every day, we must stand up to CSX and tell them to stop wasting our time. They are adding more rails between Eureka and Pennsylvania Roads. Does that mean there will be longer back-ups for
